Mesa Tactical Announces New SureShell™ Shotshell Carriers for Kel-Tec KSG Shotgun.

January 17, 2012, Las Vegas, NV – Mesa Tactical, provider of high quality tactical accessories and gear to law enforcement, the military and civilian shooters, today announced the introduction of a SureShell on-gun shotshell carrier system for the new Kel-Tec KSG bullpup shotgun. Available in four-, six-, eight- and twelve-shell configurations, the Mesa Tactical SureShell Shotshell Carrier and Rail systems for the KSG are machined from aircraft aluminum and also feature accessory mount points for on-gun weapon lights and lasers.

“No other modern shotgun design has generated as much market enthusiasm in recent years as the Kel-Tec KSG,” said Mitch Barrie, Mesa Tactical’s President. “It is very exciting for us to be among the first suppliers of aftermarket accessories for this innovative new platform.”

The SureShell carrier system comprises a replacement anodized aluminum Picatinny optics rail which supports one or two machined shell carrier yokes. Small aluminum flanges on either side of the main rail can accept additional lengths of Picatinny rail to support weapon lights or targeting lasers. A pair of unique steel recoil blocks featuring angled set screws ensure the rail assembly is securely mounted to the shotgun.

Prices and availability

Mesa Tactical will be demonstrating a sample of the new shell carrier design this week in their booth #20410 at the SHOT Show in Las Vegas. Production models will be available in the spring of 2012. The accessory Picatinny rails can be mounted on one or both sides of the shell carrier assembly.
