Mesa Tactical Announces Urbino Tactical Stock and Forend bundle for Benelli M4.

June 15 2011, Costa Mesa, CA – Mesa Tactical, provider of high quality tactical accessories and gear to law enforcement, the military and civilian shooters, has teamed with local supplier Freedom Fighter Tactical to bundle their US-made forends with Mesa Tactical’s Urbino Tactical stock for the Benelli M4 semi-automatic shotgun. This new product bundle will allow Benelli M4 owners to customize their shotguns with coyote-colored stock and forend “furniture.”

“The recent availability of Freedom Fighter’s forends allows us to offer complete Benelli M4 stock furniture sets in different colors,” said Mitch Barrie, President of Mesa Tactical. “This gives us an opportunity to more fully serve the burgeoning community of Benelli M4 operators with quality shotgun furniture options.”

“The furniture sets look great, they are great improvement over the OEM pieces regarding form and function, and they assist the Benelli M4 enthusiast in achieving US Code Title 18 922(r) compliance,” said Todd Bergin, President of Freedom Fighter Tactical, a Southern California based provider of premium Benelli M4 parts and accessories.

The first color being offered is “coyote,” a variation on the desert tan color that is increasingly popular with professional and hobbyist operators of the AR-15, FN SCAR and other rifles. Both companies plan to introduce other military color combinations in the future.

Injection-molded in glass-filled nylon, the Urbino Tactical stock features a “tactical” 12½ inch length of pull (LoP) for enhanced weapon control, especially with body armor; optional field-adjustable cheek riser to provide improved cheek weld when used with optics; optional Limbsaver® butt pad for greater shooting comfort, especially during long training or certification courses; shock-absorbing rubber grip sleeve to reduce shooter fatigue; and a variety of standard and proprietary sling mounting options.

Urbino Tactical Stock and Forend for Benelli M4 bundles are available immediately, with retail pricing from $165.00 to $220.00 depending on cheek riser and buttpad options. Like the Urbino Tactical stock, Freedom Fighter's forends are made in the USA and can contribute to the domestic parts count for US Code Title 18 922(r) compliance.
